

05/31/2025 Memorandum of Cooperation was signed with DUG Heilbronn UA and the Center for Ukrainian Culture and Assistance "The Power of Unity" in Crailsheim UA

Signing a memorandum of cooperation is necessary to clearly define the intentions and principles of interaction between the parties, without creating legal obligations. This allows the parties to feel mutual trust and readiness for cooperation, forming the basis for future projects and partnerships.

🔑 The memorandum allows the parties to clearly determine what they want to achieve together and how they will implement their plans.

🔑 It establishes the rules by which interactions between the parties will take place, which helps to avoid misunderstandings and conflicts.

🔑 Signing a memorandum is a sign of mutual trust and readiness for cooperation, which creates a positive atmosphere for joint work.

🔑 A memorandum does not create legal obligations, like a contract, which gives the parties flexibility and the opportunity to test cooperation before concluding longer-term agreements.

🔑 If the cooperation proves successful, the memorandum can serve as the basis for the subsequent conclusion of a contract.

🔑 A memorandum can be used to unite the efforts of organizations in a joint project, defining the roles and responsibilities of each partner.

🔑 A memorandum can determine what each party will contribute to the cooperation, whether it be funds, resources, experience or knowledge.

🔑 A memorandum can provide for control and reporting mechanisms, which ensures transparency in the cooperation process.
