Fred.dielinkesocke_official – Who we are and what we stand for
Fred stands for:

Friendly
Resilient and rebellious
Engagement
Democratic and dynamic

We are Fred.dielinkesocke_official, a peaceful demo collective from Dresden that actively advocates for equality, diversity and against the shift to the right and fascism. Our goal is to offer a safe and non-violent platform for all people who want to get involved politically - regardless of age, origin or previous experience with demonstrations.

Our principles – what is important to us

As a collective, we expressly speak out against all forms of violence – both against and by the police. Our focus is on peaceful protest in order to provide a protected space for everyone who wants to get involved against the right. Many people are afraid of the radical nature of some demonstrations and fear violent confrontations or the use of pyrotechnics. We want to provide these people with a safe environment where they can raise their voices without fear. We also have Supervisors who can always be contacted and who are always ready to help or clarify problems.

What is not allowed at our demos

To ensure everyone's safety, there are some clear rules:

- No alcohol and no drugs (including cannabis): A clear head helps to keep the situation under control at all times.
- No glass bottles: These can cause dangerous injuries if they break.
- No weapons and no pyrotechnics: Weapons have no place at our demonstrations, and pyrotechnics can quickly create chaotic situations that are stressful for some people.
- No anti-police slogans: This can not only strain the relationship with the police, but also have a negative impact on future demonstrations.

Why peaceful protest is important to us

We in no way condemn more radical demo collectives, but our approach is deliberately peaceful in order to also appeal to families, children and older people. Anyone who wants to get involved should be able to do so without fear. Our goal is to offer everyone an opportunity to take their protest safely and decisively to the streets.

Our collective is also committed to open exchange and mutual support. Solidarity is a central value for us - whether in our actions or in everyday life. Only together can we achieve lasting change and defend ourselves against oppression and injustice.

Together loudly against the right-wing people!

We are here to create a safe framework in which everyone can take action. Together we stand for a fairer world - without hate, without violence, but with a lot of commitment and determination!
