FIRST CHOICE COLLEGE ADMISSION PROGRAM

1. Introduction

Why pass up on the real chance to secure one-stop solutions for many problems?

Every family with their student aiming for a top tier college must consider our offer : The First Choice College Admission Program

It is intended for students attending both high- and average-performing schools and maximizing their chances of admission to their first choice college.

1.1. Largest problems facing most families : lack of effective support and coordination

Students and parents often feel that their schools don't adequately provide them with academic and non-academic support, and seek help from the outside. So many of them suffer from the lack of high quality coordination of support and services - in and outside of their school - that allow them to create and build on their strengths aligned with their college of first choice. Along the way, much time and opportunities for maximizing their chances of success are lost.

1.2. Solutions offered : unified support and services solving academic and non-academic problems

The integrated year round schedule of support and services including academic and non-academic milestones is customized and managed under the school's supervision. Unlike most other schools, the implementation of unified superior quality support and services executed through the new school ensures that each family with their student aiming for a top tier college maximizes their chance of successful admission. Best of all, the highest time and cost efficiency is achieved to win an early nod from their college of first choice.

1.3. Benefits articulated : best performance-to-price ratio and efficient positioning in the competitive job market

Finding and working with academic and non-academic service providers outside of school often challenges each family for the undue confusion, anxiety, and the greater cost than necessary. Many providers also dissuade them from accelerating their academic and non-academic achievement process for recurring payment transactions. In the short term, the implementation of unified superior quality support and services executed through the new school enables each student to achieve milestones efficiently and stay on a trajectory far ahead towards the envisioned success. In the long term, the student can develop the capability to network with decision makers of college and beyond, opening many doors to the future success in the corporate world.

2. Solutions

Why not maximize chances of admission to your top tier college of choice?

Each family can use our solutions to match their student to their college of choice.

Many families receive no significant support from their student’s school for not preparing what it takes for their school to advocate effectively for their college of choice. However, we help them make sure that their student gets the most support for maximizing results for their student's top tier college admission.

2.1. Process each student will undergo via customization

Step 1	Step 2	Step 3	Step 4	Step 5	Step 6
Assess and create best and unusual strengths – academic and non-academic	Evaluate strengths via top notch college professors and area specific experts	Submit student’s key information to decision makers of first choice college for review	Calibrate with feedback and secure unofficial likelihood or intent of acceptance	Complete final submission of application components	Verify official acceptance from first choice college
Under the new school officials’ supervision and involving a team of professors and experts : designed and executed seamlessly to ensure immaculate quality for the strongest candidate advocacy

2.2. Performance of one-on-one care

Unlike other schools, the strategic care provided with the unified superior quality support and services takes the student to the forefront of receiving most serious consideration for candidacy. It ensures that the student’s chances of admission will be maximized in the landscape of single digit acceptance rate.

2.3. Strongest candidate advocacy

Each student will receive an in-depth, careful review of decision makers of the first choice college based on the best and unusual strengths created and evaluated in advance.

2.4. Acceptance to the college of first choice

Probability game for the student’s acceptance to the top tier college of choice is played to satisfaction with the exact knowledge required for success as it has been practiced for decades.

3. Benefits

Why forgo some of the largest benefits available for each family?

Benefits are within each family's reach while aiming for a top tier college of their choice.

3.1. Highest performance-to-price ratio : against a significant loss of money and the invaluable time

School teachers and college counselors often don't evaluate nor determine the quality of their students outside of school. That is because of the many barriers formed by outside academic and non-academic service providers. School officials can't easily coordinate strengths their students bring to maximize their advantage.

When school officials evaluate their students for college applications, a careful reservation is a discreet step they take. When a family wants to turn their situation around, identify problems and weaknesses for improvement, and even redo everything, time isn't on their side. The implementation of unified superior quality support and services executed through the new school ensures that each student is given the most thorough examination, evaluation, and the best candidate advocacy to match their college of first choice.

Despite all the many dollars they spend on different services outside, they can't get the strongest push they need from their school officials to maximize their chances of admission to the college of their choice. Every time, calculations prove that the benefits we offer are most efficient.

3.2. Early adaptation to competitive job market : against falling behind

The academic and non-academic achievements we help each student garner facilitate the superior candidacy for the fast emerging, increasingly competitive job market across existing and new industries. The trajectory the student stays on by virtue of the exceptional achievements accelerates the growth of their potential for superior candidacy for numerous positions of their choosing. The elasticity of their creativity and the intelligence of their leadership set them apart. Naturally, they get ahead with their advanced work in progress beyond their achievements. We know what the most competitive organizations look for in their future corporate officers.

3.3. Advanced networking capability : be a leader, not a follower

Decision makers of top tier colleges and best performing corporate organizations look for unique personality beyond excellent skills and etiquettes. The unique personality enables each candidate to associate, relate, envision, execute, and achieve the goals and ambitions they stand for. We facilitate each student to design, form, and command their unique personality to their advantage.
